THE SLEEP.

BLUE G. BARD.

They sleep in the crowded city,
Laid out in walks and squares;
Where friends gather o'er them
Mingling tears and prayers.

They sleep in the country graveyard,
To the sound of a low refrain,
As the long grass waves above them
And sobs in the falling rain.

They sleep beneath the ocean,
While the proud ship plows the wave,
Yea, thousands of our loved ones
Sleep in a watery grave.

They sleep beneath the sandhills
Of the desert, drear and wide,
The rider and his camel
Are sleeping side by side.

They sleep on the field of battle—
A field with blood once red—
No monument marks the spot
Where rests the lonely head.

They sleep by tens of millions
In every land and clime,
Dreamlessly awaiting God's appointed time.

When at the mighty signal
Of the angelic trumpet dread,
They'll meet on a common level,
The living and the dead.

HOPKINS AND CHRISTIAN.

Mr. Patterson Says Are Unusually Prosperous Just Now.

(Courier-Journal.)

"Hopkins and Christian counties are unusually prosperous just now," said Mr. T. E. Parsons, traveling representative of the Standard Oil Company in Kentucky, who is stopping at the Fifth Avenue.

"The coal mines in those countries are running full blast and have been for several weeks. Consequently the region round about is bubbling with prosperity. There does not seem to be a trace of the bad feeling caused by the recent strike. The mines are unable to keep up with the demand for coal and are reaping a harvest as the result of the Pennsylvania strike. Lack of car prevents the Western Kentucky mines from doing an even larger business than they are handling at present.

"General business conditions are good throughout the western part of the State despite the poor wheat crop. The corn crop looks as though the apprehensions of the farmers expressed during the hot, dry spell were largely unfounded."

WHO?

The Oklahoma City (O. T.) Journal makes these queries:

Who publishes your lodge notices free?

Who publishes your church notices free?

Who publishes news of your business free?

Who publishes the news of your friends free?

Who publishes items for you by request free?

Who publishes hundreds of items helping to build up your city and increase the value of your property—free?

Is it the advertising fair?

Is it the people you send to out of town to do your work?

Is it just—that you ask the newspapers to print all this for you and go elsewhere with your patronage?

Is it right—that you talk home industry and send your business out of town or patronize strangers?

Do you believe in reciprocity? If you do, why not patronize those whom you ask favors?

Surgis Went Dry.

In the local option election held at Surgis Saturday the "dry" won and prohibition will remain in force. The vote was 182 to 80.

It is never safe to gauge the sentiment of the country, by the cheers in the congressional galleries.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

One of the latest strikes of coal miners took place in our county a few days ago at a small county coal mine north of Madisonville. The operators of the mine had expressed a love for the U. M. W. organization and had practically turned the mine over to them to be run at their dictation, and true to the rules of the order which gives them the right to either shut down a mine or run it on their own conditions, they were not long in closing same. Plainly seeing that they possessed the power of control, they at once made a demand for higher wages, which upon being refused, they, to a man, laid down their mining tools and closed down the mine, and the laugh is now on the operators, who gave them all encouragement possible by recognition of the order, but failed to comply with the request for higher wages, showing that there was no love then when the pocket was touched. But as the entire force only consisted of six men all told, the coal consumer feels the effect of the shut down but little, yet the same disposition to rule or ruin is shown wherever the U. M. W. have control.

The daily production of coal during the winter months is not equal to the consumption, therefore with the mines in Pennsylvania shut down for several months past a short supply of coal will most likely be the result. This of course will fall heavier upon the idle miners who in a large measure is more to blame than these laborers who have remained steady at work at other vocations; thus it can be seen that strike like a two-edged sword, cuts both ways, cutting off both wages and the coal supply, by their wrong actions.

Soft coal is said to be selling at $8.50 per ton on the Chicago market and anthracite coal can not be bought at any price. Such being the condition of affairs on the coal market, the prospect of unprecedented demand upon the unimpeachable coal mines of Kentucky does at this time look very bright indeed; but how can they supply outside markets when during the early late summer months they have had more orders than could be filled promptly, and miners complain of lack of sufficient rest, but as they have in the past remained true to their employers when rush orders came in, they can still be depended upon to respond to the call for extra work.

What a contrast the quiet, peaceful times of this month presents to that of last September, when two coaches full of true and tried men were sent to Madisonville on request of the sheriff to be used in quelling disturbances created by members of the U. M. W. who at that time seemed determined to take the Reinecke mine by force. Now but few of that organization can be seen in this county and they wanting work at any price, and full of sorrow no doubt over the wrong acts thus committed, but sorrow don't help their cause now as the operators have found them wanting in the qualities that constitute faithful employees.

The sad statement comes from Madisonville that one of the miners of that place who once enjoyed the luxuries of life while in the employ of the coal company, but who later joined Wood's gang of idlers, now is forced to beg for the necessities of life. Sympathy is due any wife and children who suffer, but little is due the husband and father who by idleness brought on poverty. No man need be idle in this county if he conducts himself so as to command the respect of the employer.

Word comes from our neighboring county—Christian—that the Sand Lick Oil Co. who have been boring for oil there for months past, now feel confident of being rewarded for their labors. One test shows they have drilled through what is said to be forty feet of oil producing rock, and that at a depth of 1,700 feet, and from this well they look for favorable results.

Mr. Thos. Gooch, of Hanson, traveling salesman for Benet & Seitz, and who is interested in the effort to strike oil south of Henderson, says reports from the men in charge of the work and also that of experts, are of an assuring nature and that prospects indicate a rich oil strike in the near future.

Secretary Bailey, of the Reinecke Coal Company, found time last Saturday to spend a while here among his friends, who regard him as one of the promoters of the present prosperity enjoyed by this county.

The Providence Coal Company is now doing a heavy business, two extra trains being run out of there last Sunday to move the coal and other freight, which shows what can be done when U. M. W. get out of the way.

Mr. John Haley, of the St. Bernard Company, is responsible for the story that during his long years of residence at a point so close to the Ohio river, he never until a week ago saw that stream or a steamboat and was much amused to see a street car at Evansville and that it moved without horse or engine.

A stable consisting of thirty stalls has just been completed in No. 11 mine. This will save the mules a long trip to and from work, and the drivers the trouble of riding them to and from, and therefore a portion of the races seen almost daily, will cease.

The many friends of F. B. Arnold, of the St. Bernard Co.,

deeply sympathize with him and his wife and children in their present sad bereavement, the loss of their dear little daughter,

Secretary Geo. C. Atkinson, accompanied by his youngest daughter, made Henderson a visit last Saturday and when last seen George was led around the city looking at the river and other sights.

Secretary Paul M. Moore, of the Apotley Coal Co., has returned with his family from a western trip much improved in health.

A loss of over $25,000 is the result of a late fire in the Texas oil field, and at last accounts it was still burning.

After having abused the governor of Pennsylvania for sending troops to preserve order in the strike regions, the same fellows are now appealing to him to end the strike. A little backbone sometimes makes men hu-modate a force of miners they expect to put at work soon developing the mines. A new track for use in loading coal is being put in by the Illinois Central there, we understand.

Some coal land, we understand, was last week purchased by Mr. Nick Toombs of this place. It is located a few miles west of this place. Thus far the land has been used principally for farming purposes.

Manager James R. Rash, of the St. Bernard Company stores, was called to Webster county again last week on important business for the company.

Every mine under the control of the St. Bernard Co. is being worked to its full capacity and still orders remain unfilled. No rest in sight for the miners here.

Ashland, Ky., now boasts of a coal company whose capital stock is $1,200,000, having lately been increased for the further development of coal mines and erection of coke ovens.

Several lead mines in Kentucky are now receiving the attention of men of capital. One of the latest being that near Paducah, where a stock company with capital of $20,000 was recently organized.

The new coal mine now being opened at Henderson, Ky., will be operated by Mr. O. W. Rash and David Banks. The product will be for home consumption principally.

The Carbonate mine changed hands last week, a Paducah company having secured control of same. It is hoped the new company will imitate the coal companies already doing business in this county and not surrender to the U. M. W. which means continual trouble and turmoil.

Chief Bookkeeper W. G. Wright of the Crabtree Coal Co., was called here last week the serious illness of his wife who was compelled to undergo a surgical operation. Walter expects to return to work soon as his wife shows signs of rapid recovery.

The rapid progress made by some of the recent leaders of the U. M. W. toward wealth evidently made some of their humble followers jealous and no doubt was the cause of the removal of Barnaby and Chappell and others.

The fine new house being built by Watson indicates he was at least well paid for his services as organizer. Tate doesn't seem to have had much to do with the finances.

Some surprising and extensive changes may be looked for in the Kentucky coal mining fields in the near future.

Hopkinsville Girl Elephants.

Louis Frazer, a young man late of Nashville, a painter working for Forbes & Bro., and Miss Cora Walker, daughter of Mr. Geo. W. Walker, eloped to St. Louis last Wednesday night and were married in that city. They have now notified the bride's parents of their marriage and will remain in St. Louis for the present.

The bride is seventeen years of age and was a pupil in the eleventh grade of the public school, and would have graduated next year. The young couple had known each other for only about two months.

Fireman Y. Q. Walker was made glad by a visit from his wife and daughter a few days last week.

Conductor Frank Sweeney was so unfortunate as to lose his position with the L. & N. last week. He has been with the company some time, and as he is a good railroad man, it will doubtless be an easy matter to secure a position with some other road.

Calvin J. Martin has returned to Earlinton and we are all rejoiced to see him once more. Cal is a general favorite in Earlinton as well as on the road.

The Louisville & Nashville has announced to its connections that it has been compelled almost to eliminate the stop over privileges on its tickets on account of the operations of ticket scalpers. Hereafter the privileges will be the same as they have been on the homeseekers' tickets, but on the regular form tickets no stop overs will be permitted except at Mammoth Cave and Gulf coast points.

Miss Flora Harris, of Hopkinsville, sued the Louisville & Nashville railroad for $26,000, alleging that she was so frightened at a train approaching her at a alarming speed she fainted on the track, being rescued by onlookers. She says her nervous system is shattered.

Bowling Green, Ky.—There is talk of building an electric railroad from Bowling Green to Smith's Grove, a distance of about 12 miles.

Louisville—Railroad Shops.—Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company has definitely decided to erect the extensive shops which have recently been mentioned, and the cost of entire work and machinery is estimated at $2,100,000. P. Leeds, superintendent of machinery, will purchase all the tools required.

I purchased a bottle and took it, and soon recovered, starting out on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect." Another summer, "I was attacked by diarrhoea, and was unable to get up the strength to proceed to camp when I had to leave. CHEAP notoriety is now sought by certain daily newspapers through efforts to raise popular subscriptions to prolong the strike in the anthracite region, and some in the effort to work up mammoth petitions to President Roosevelt to "stop the strike."

A CERTAIN daily circulating quite extensively among conservative citizens and business men of this State has been "hearing from the subscribers" on the question of the paper's attitude toward unionism and strikes. Many business men in Hopkins county think they themselves know a thing or two about mine workers unions, agitators and strikers.

these deeds of violence. These contributions will help to prolong the strike and to multiply the outrages committed by the ignorant unionists inflamed by such public sympathy.

An Associated Press dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., dated Sept. 15, says:

Two Italians named John DiVino and Antonio Dizzl, at Old Forge, were killed by fifty strikers as they were returning from work this morning. Both men were badly clubbed and stoned. Several shots were fired and a striker is reported to have been shot in the leg. DiVino's injuries were so serious that he had to be removed to the Pittston, Pa., hospital. Dizzl was able to walk to his boarding house.

In singular contrast to this is the long distance telephone interview of the Indianapolis News with John Mitchell on that day. Mitchell talked from Wilkesbarre. When asked if the troops were to be withdrawn from the region he replied:

"Not that I know of. All the information I have on the matter is what I see in the papers. There is no need of troops, however, as the men are orderly. They are keeping the law."

The Chicago preachers, or some notoriety-seeking daily paper should now rise up and take another collection for the Italian strikers.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

TAKING THE CENSUS

PERMANENT BUREAU ORGANIZED FOR THAT PURPOSE.

Force of Experts to Be Continuously Employed Gathering Statistics and Preparing For the Next Enumeration—Work of Director Merriam.

When the time arrives to take the next census of Uncle Sam's dependents, there will be a fully equipped and thoroughly organized force ready to undertake the task. In the past the organization of a force to take the census has been a mighty undertaking, and the work of compiling the results of the enumerators has been a labor of years.

All this is changed now, for the interior department has organized a permanent census bureau, the first in the United States. Such an undertaking presupposes confusion—the assembly of an army of clerks, the disposition of supplies and the preparation of quarters. But such was not the case. The bureau has been brought into life without causing a ripple.

Under the direction of William R. Merriam, the last census was the most complete and expeditious ever taken. In previous decennial years directors of the census were continually re-arranging the enumeration after each year, with the enumeration and incidental computations, sometimes for four years, sometimes six, sometimes even seven years, but never less than four. Mr. Merriam's force completed its four principal reports in about two years, having done work that in the previous census extended over seven years.

To accomplish such a result required the greatest possible degree of administration and organization. There were, for example, over 82,000 enumerators to be trained and supervised. About 620,000,000 cards passed through the punching-machines in the Washington office, including 600,000 schedules on population, 50,000 schedules on vital statistics, 5,738,524 agricultural schedules and 608,401 schedules on manufacturers. Every single schedule, every one of the 620,000,000 cards which were punched in the course of the bureau's work, had to be carefully examined and stripped of its statistical information.

Yet the number of assistants who united with Governor Merriam to achieve this result in two years was not large. Excluding the enumerators, the entire clerical force embraced only 8,550 persons. The work was done not by force of numbers, but by organization. Every clerk had his own particular task thoroughly.

The new bureau of course retains all these characteristics and includes all the essentials of the larger organization, where 4,500 clerks are needed, formed for the work of the permanent office will have but 780. These will be under the direction of the present executive, four chief statisticians, one chief clerk and a district statistician. The clerks will probably be the most highly trained and carefully selected body of classified employees in the United States. They are all of the highest possible record. Every one of them is a graduate in mathematics and the most masterful skill. They are a body of experts, ready to undertake any kind of statistical work.

The force, while organized primarily to perform the duties of the permanent office, will assist Director Merriam to work several important reforms. When the thirteenth census is to be taken, the permanent force can be very easily expanded by the employment of additional clerks in the lower grades and the work done with understanding and freedom from friction which will contribute greatly to the success of the enumeration. Mr. Merriam's expectation is that the head of the office in the permanent office will be the record of the census and complete the issue of his statistical volumes not in seven years or even in ten years, but in one year after the enumerators have prepared their schedules.

The permanent force has been divided into five divisions—population, manufactures, agriculture, vital statistics and geographical and miscellaneous. The work of the permanent office will be to collect all facts to be steadily employed until time to prepare for the next census. In the meantime statistics relating to agricultural products, births and deaths, etc., will be gathered each year.

WESTERN FOREST FIRES.

Summary of the Devastation Thus Far Resulting From the Far Western Forest Fires.

DAMAGE WILL AGGREGATE MILLIONS.

There Has Been Some Loss of Human Life, But How Serious It Is Impossible Yet to Determine—Only a General Hail Can Stay the Flames at Present.

Kingsburg, Wash., Sept. 13.—News reached here Saturday night that the forest fires on Lewis river have wrought sad havoc. Mrs. L. Wallace, wife and two children were burned to death. They were camping in the woods when caught by the fire. Their wagon was overturned, and a seven-year-old boy of Mr. Hanley's is also dead. John Polk and baby and a brother, name unknown, and Mr. Newhouse and Mrs. Graves are dead. Fifteen others were found without clothing, excepting gunny sacks. Five living persons are reported missing. The following families have lost everything: Elias Street, O. S. Curtis, L. M. Clift, Thomas Mattiess, T. W. Klemson, H. E. Dartford, Dr. Ellis and others. The worst of the fire is on Lewis river, about twelve miles above Woodland. The country is well settled and there are doubtless other casualties not yet reported.

Fire Timber Destroyed.

The fire has spread from Lewis river north to the Klamath river, and 50 sections of timber, worth $1,000,000, are destroyed. It is impossible to give any estimate of the amount of damage done to property. Oak Point, 20 miles below here on the Columbia river, is totally destroyed. There are no reports of lives lost, but loss to property is estimated at about $300,000.

A great fire is also raging on the Cowman, in the northern part of the county. Everything combustible in its path was consumed. The air is thick with smoke and billows. Hill camp is almost entirely destroyed; Mackley Brothers' No. 2 camp is also burned out; Moreland's camp is badly damaged. Seven donkey engines are ruined. Two men from Barr's camp are reported missing. Barr's camp are said to be struck and many are almost crazed with grief over loss of property.

The Whole Country in Gloom.

Cowlitz county thought it was going to escape and Sunday, when ports came in, found such worse than ever last. Five people are dead and two missing, with only partial reports from the burned district. The horrible news has cast a gloom over the entire country that can hardly be described. A court of inquiry is being held to ascertain if there are only two houses left, standing on Lewis river from Trout's place to the head of the river, a distance of 30 miles, and that not less than fifteen persons have perished.

THE OREGON FIRES.

Multnomah and Clackamas Counties the Worst Sufferers.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 15.—About three hundred people are left homeless on Multnomah and Clackamas counties account of the great fires that have raged for the past week.

In the fire that destroyed the town of Palmer, near Bridal Veil, two boys named Hamilton were caught while driving to escape from the flames and burned to death. The fires in the state of Oregon have been immense, and the whole length of the Clackamas river presents nothing but vias of ruined settlements.

The most disastrous losses have been suffered in the vicinity of Springwater, Clackamas county, and Lentz, Multnomah county. The Springwater region has been utterly swept by the fires, and those who have reached points in communication with the hill outposts get in their ponies and ride the day, and relatives, including a sister, Mrs. Jennie Cobb, of San Jose, Cal., who is the only near relative who survives Mrs. Stratton, did not leave her bedside at any time.

The Man Who Made Washington a Magnificent City Passes Away at Batopilas, Mexico.

Washington, Sept. 13.—A private telegraph received from the U. S. Consul, announces the death there Friday morning of Alexander H. Shepherd, who was vice-president of the board of public works of the District of Columbia during the territorial government of President Harrison, and two years later governor of the territory. He was 67 years of age. The cause of death was peritonitis, brought on by an attack of appendicitis. At the expiration of his term as governor, he came to New York, and in company with New York capitalists, he purchased the Old Haedensia San Miguel silver mines, at Batopilas, which in later years have proved profitable, and there he has since resided. NICHOLAS FISH IS DEAD.

The Millionaire New York Banker Succumbed to Injuries Received Monday.

SEQUEL TO A RENDEZVOUS WITH WOMEN.

Thomas Sharkey, With Whom Fish Had an Affair, Was Murdered—Held Under Suspicion, and the Two Women Held as Suspects in the Murders.

Story of the Murders.

New York, Sept. 17.—Nicholas Fish, millionaire, diplomat and descendant of one of the best known of American families, died at his residence in Manhattan on Wednesday morning, the result of an injury received in Harbo's saloon, 305 West Thirty-fourth street, Monday. Whether he was murdered or fell victim to the police has not yet determined, but it is believed that he would naturally follow as event in which criminal responsibility must be placed, are told, but there seems to be no doubt that Mr. Fish had a quarrel with a private detective who had been for several hours drinking with Mrs. Libby J. Phillips and Mrs. Nelly Case.

Coroner Johnson made a examination of Mr. Fish's body. He said no fracture of the skull had been found.

He believed death had been due to paralysis of the brain, caused by a blow on the left side of the face or head. He thought that if Mr. Fish had been hit on the right side of the head, the skull would probably have been fractured. The coroner said that a knockout blow usually causes paralysis or concussion of the brain. The pupil of Mr. Fish's right eye was dilated, while the left was contracted and, that, with the exception of a symptom of paralysis of the brain.

Mrs. Libby J. Phillips, 38 years of age; Mrs. Nelly Case, 30 years old, and Thomas J. Sharkey, 43 years old, were arrested in connection with the case. They were arraigned in the police court, and were held for the coroner. A detective said to the sitting magistrate that the prisoners were arraigned as suspicious persons in connection with the death of Nicholas Fish.

Mrs. Case denied all knowledge of the case. Mrs. Phillips, when questioned about the case, said: "You'll find out later."

Coroner Jackson held Sharkey in $10,000 bail, and Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Case in $500 bail, as witnesses. Sharkey made the following statement prior to his arraignment:

"I went into jail because I was trying to stop a fight for years unless they gain the concessions demanded. Meanwhile the country is suffering a coal famine.

Shrewd persons have perished and honest ones have been made to die in the forces, which have raged in the states of Washington and Oregon and in British Columbia for several days.

OF THE

WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

Edited by a White Ribboner.

"He criticized her puddings, and he didn't like her cake; He wished she'd make the biscuit her mother used to make; She didn't wash the dishes, and she didn't make a mess. And she had a box of stockings as his mother used to do. Ah, well! she wasn't perfect, tho' she tried to do her best, Until at length she thought her time had come to have a rest; So, when one day he went the same old rigamarole all through. She turned and boxed his ears, just as his mother used to do."

As should be expected, the obnoxious statements made by Dr. Andrews in regard to the social evil, in the presence of the students of Chicago University, have provoked much comment from both the secular and religious press. Among the papers that have expressed their disapproval of his utterances may be mentioned the Springfield (Mass.) Republican; the Midland (United Presbyterian), Chicago; the Standard (Baptist), Chicago; the Northwestern (M. E.), Chicago; the Christian Standard, Cincinnati; the Free Methodist, Chicago; the Christian Conservator (United Brethren), Huntington, Ind.; the Phalanx (Prohibition), Indianapolis; the Chicago Record-Herald, and the Capital (Republican), Topeka, Kan., the last named heading its article, "Seasickness at Chicago University."

A few pointers as to how the liquor traffic manages to control elections.

Some of our readers may remember that on June 18, 1899, a special election was held in the state of Pennsylvania, when the citizens voted on a Prohibition amendment to the constitution and in which the amendment was lost.

That defeat has been used ever since by the opponents of Prohibition as illustrating the impracticability of attempting to carry other states for Prohibition by a general election.

Next year, as a similar election was to be held in Nebraska, a decoy letter was sent, ostensibly from a liquor dealer in Nebraska to various parties in Pennsylvania, asking for advice as to the means of carrying the election in Nebraska against Prohibition.

The liquor campaign in Pennsylvania had been managed by Harry P. Crowell, senior member of the firm of Crowell and Glass, a cold storage company doing business in Philadelphia. Mr. Crowell very freely gave the supposed Nebraska liquor dealer some interesting facts in regard to the Pennsylvania campaign, with the intimation that much stronger data could be furnished thro' a personal interview. A representative was accordingly sent to confer with Mr. Crowell at his private residence in Philadelphia, and this is what he said:

"In the first place we assessed the sales of all beer per annum at 10 cents a barrel. We levied an assessment of $1,000 on all the large hotels like the Continental, and they paid it like little men, and from $20 to $30 on all smaller retail shops. Besides, each brewer was required to solicit money from every man in trade with whom we had dealings—those engaged in making barrels, those from whom we bought our horses and wagons and grain and machinery, etc., and if such persons failed to respond after a reasonable time, A NOTICE WAS FORWARDED THAT A PROMPT COMPLIANCE WOULD SAVE TROUBLE and a possible boycott, in this way forcing hundreds to whom we did it reluctantly.

"By this plan we raised over $200,000 in Philadelphia alone, which was expended by the state committee.

"Appeals for money were made to the trade throughout the country, and large sums were contributed by the Brewer's Association and the National Protective Association.

"Besides the current expenses, we paid it out to the newspapers, politicians, and some for literature and some for public speakers.

"QUAY BLEED US FOR THREE YEARS.

"We paid the county commissioners of this country to let us have the poll-list exclusively for our use with the understanding that we were not to return the list until after election.  So the Prohibitionists had no show whatever against us.

"We bought the newspapers by paying down so much cash. I visited the editors in person or had some good man to do so.

"We paid weekly papers from $50 to $500 to publish such matter as we might furnish, either as news or editorial, but city daily papers we had to pay from $1,000 to $4,000, which latter amount was paid to the Times of this city.

"The most effective matter we could get up in the influencing of votes was, that Prohibition did not prohibit, and the revenue, taxation, and how Prohibition would hurt the farmers. We would have these articles printed in different papers and then buy thousands of copies, and send them to the farmers. IF YOU WORK THE FARMERS ON THE TAX QUESTION YOU CAN CATCH THEM EVERY TIME.

"I did not go to the preachers as I did to the politicians, but I always found out a good man in the church who could work the preacher with but little trouble, for HALF OF THE PREACHERS ARE COWARDS.

"We talked high license all the time. Never try to defend the saloon; if so, you lose the influence of church members and ministers; but talk about the revenue, cider, taxation, and especially that Prohibition doesn't prohibit, and clamor for high license."

Mr. Collins, secretary of the Scranton Brewing Company, was another party to whom a decoy letter had been sent. He replied: "In the first place I would advise you to get hold of the press as far as possible. You will find that money spent with them will produce greater results than if spent in any other way.

"I could not give you any advice as to how to get control of the clergy, as they are a difficult class to handle."

Mr. J. Rokker, wholesale liquor dealer at Lancaster, Pa., said among other things, in reply: "Don't bother with preachers. They know nothing but borrowed ideas, but you quietly hand a preacher a $50 bill and say, 'Preach up high license, denounce Prohibition as a failure wherever tried.'"

Another feature of the Pennsylvania campaign was the raid of fakirs imported from Prohibition states who went up and down the Keystone State declaring Prohibition to be a failure in their own state.

One of these was Tomlinson, a Topeka editor, who, on his return to Kansas, was obliged under oath in court to admit that he had been East telling falsehoods.

The same tactics have prevailed in Texas this year and we will try to furnish the readers of the Bee with some valuable information in this regard next week.

THE WORK OF PREPARING LENSES FOR WEAK EYES CALLS FOR GREAT SKILL AND ACCURACY.

Of the numerous things that glass is used for there is nothing that is more beneficial to people as spectacles, lenses for glasses, that are used to magnify objects. The glasses that weaken the eyes are more numerous than they were a few years ago. Preparing the glass to counteract this disease has advanced considerably during the past few years, says the Pittsburgh Press.

At one time only aged people had to wear eyeglasses; but now can be seen many children with spectacles, made necessary by some trouble with the vision.

Accidents have often caused sicknesses that have left a bad effect upon the eyes, while various diseases have caused weakening. Nerves which have been ruined by any cause generally leave the eyesight impaired, though the eyes themselves remain taken wonderful strides within the past few years, it has not reached the stage where it can be of much avail in restoring ocular perfection.

Some forms of eye trouble are hereditary. Children of parents with affected eyesight suffer with the same complaint. The child of a cross-eyed parent is generally affected in the same manner. Near-sighted parents often inherit the same ailment with their children. In these cases and similar ones medicine fails to give much benefit.

The optician can grind out lenses that are of benefit to near-sighted people. Lenses are also valuable to those with weak eyes, no matter from what cause. The art of preparing of the lenses to suit the disease has developed into a science of its own.

Grinding lenses requires much skill, in addition to knowing the diseases of the eyes. To obtain the right focus is the technical matter which they have to guard against. To use a spectacle with improper lenses causes the eyes to strain to get the distance from the eyes, so as to get the right focus. The opticians have the science down so far now that few glasses are turned out without having the exact focus.

The advancement in the power of artificial light has caused one kind of glasses to be almost done away with. That is opera glasses. Very few of this kind of magnifying articles are in use now. Few that are purchased are made for use in opera houses, but are merely presents. Just before the Christmas holidays opera glasses are purchased, but after that very few are sold.

With the advent of automobiles a new kind of eyeglasses were made for the market. These are made for weak eyes, but are made as a shield for them. They are used to keep the dirt from blowing into the eyes, and also serve to keep the wind from making the eyes water, which in turn weakens the eyes.

MAINE FOREST PRESERVE.

Delightful Retreat in Which the Means for Enjoyment are Said to Endless.

"Why," said a lazy lawyer just returning from his first trip to Maine, "I went into that wilderness a hundred miles and had a glorious time. I never saw such a life as I live here. A Pullman dropped me down at Moosehead, a steamer carried me 40 miles further, a buckboard gave me another lift, and a team of paddlers made the rest of the way in no time. I slept under a good roof on half-mattress. Everything was done for me. When I fished the guide would take the trout off the hook, fix the bait, and all I had to do was to dip in my net and pull it up. I fished all day, took a nap in the woods as easily as he can at Lenox. I am going to bring my wife with me next season."

But true sportsmen come as well, not only for the solitude and wild beauty, but for solitude and privacy simplicity in living, says the World's Works. Means of enjoyment are endless. Exploring is full of surprising delights—creeping in a canoe along a narrow stream, swimming across a lake for miles and every now and then stealing into little bays where the deer feed on swamp grasses and water lilies and the solemn great gray herons stand like sentinels in the shallow water. "Trails" merely lines of blazed trees lead through the forest, lead through the woods, fragrant with flowers, where birds rare to the suburban bird-lover are as common as robins, to new lakes or streams. Even the most daring sportsman can find a camp site by the hearing of wild animals, the stories told by the tales of wilderness adventures. Here square-tailed trout grow to the weight of ten and even twelve pounds, which they can be taken by the ideal methods of the net and the minnow-rod. In the fall white-tail deer and moose makes the clear, cool days gilly by swiftly.

Troy Knows This. Towne—Judging from what D'Aubrey says, all his acquaintances must be very shrewd people.

Browne—Why, he's been boasting about it all the time.

"Yes, indirectly. I heard him bragging that he didn't owe anybody a dollar."—Philadelphia Press.

Not Much Difference. Lady Talbot—Like the Louis XIV. and the Louis XVI., designs equally well. It wouldn't do, I suppose, to have both chairs in the parlor? Clerk—Oh, yes, madam; they would harmonize well—only two years' difference, you see.—Judge.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 21—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic—The fullness of God now secures us.

In the topical references we have one of the most remarkable prayers to be found in the word of God. Paul was a man of prayer. He not only prayed for himself, but his prayers were constantly offered to the throne of God for Christian people everywhere, and especially in behalf of the Christian church which he was interested. He wrote to the Romans that without ceasing he made mention of them in his prayers, and in this letter to the Ephesians we have an illustration of one of his other prayers, the prayer for the fullness of the Christian church. This prayer consists of a preface of four petitions and the following doxology: "Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think according to the power of His might, in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

As a consumption of all the petitions of divine grace, Paul prays that the Christian may be filled with all the fullness of God. This is a peculiar expression. It does not mean that it is possible for the Ephesians to contain the fullness of God. This would be absurd. They are finite; God is infinite. It is impossible for anything to contain the fullness of God in the limits of finiteness. What Paul asks is that the Ephesians may be filled with the same sort of graces and perfections that are contained in themselves. The perfect love that is contained in God, and yet to the measure of their fullness they could contain the same kind of love as characterizes God. The difference would be that the smaller vessel could be filled from the larger one and possess the same material contained in it, although it could not contain the same amount. In this sense Paul prays that the Ephesians may be filled with the fullness of God. He asks that they may have the graces of character and the qualities of disposition that characterize God, He possessing in perfection what they would possess in imitation.

The question asked in the topic is, How is this fullness of God to be received? In the topical reference it is suggested by Paul that it is to be the result of the possession of the manifold blessings of God, and of the Spirit. There are four of these petitions. 1. Paul pray that they may be strengthened with might in the inner man by the Holy Ghost. 2. He prays that the Spirit may dwell in their hearts. 3. He prays that they may be able to comprehend what are the breadth and length and depth and height of the love of God. 4. He prays that they may be able to know the love of Christ, which passes knowledge. The sum of all these petitions is to be the fullness of God. They include the possession of the Holy Ghost, the indwelling of Jesus Christ and the comprehension of the love of God and of Christ. If, therefore, we want to know how we may be filled with the fullness of God, it is found here. The Holy Ghost will strengthen us; then Christ must dwell in our hearts, and being rooted and grounded in love, we may apprehend and understand the love of God and the love of Christ. We may possess the power of God and thus understanding the character of God, we cannot but also possess the disposition of God. The Holy Ghost and the Lord Jesus Christ cannot dwell in our hearts without manifesting the love of God in our dispositions and in our lives. Believers of the same nature as God, they will impart this nature to us, and we will possess to the fullest measure possible the same disposition and the same character that God himself possesses.

BIBLE READINGS.

FAIR LOVE AS YOUR HEART.

Crown what money you may into your purse you find your purse still empty. But with love in your heart all your drafts will be paid off. And when you doubt love question logic. I say that though love is illegal it is sufficient. For that love which was logical or just would come about at the hub. You think love is away up or down somewhere out of sight. But love, too, and in larger sense, is food and raiment and guard and beautifies the sources of life. Indeed there is no practical thing but love. Your judgment and useless. But when man dies for man, or when life commands the services of life in any of the humble byways of experience, the only practical work of the sphere has been accomplished.—Conservator.

JUST THIS MINUTE.

If we're thoughtful, just this minute, in whatever we say and do; It's the right time to live. It's the honest through and through. We shall gladden life and give it a greater meaning and substance. For, though life is long, we live it just this minute at a time.

Just this minute we are going toward the right or toward the wrong;

Just this minute we are growing or shrinking, or becoming less;

Just this minute we are thinking on the ways that lead to God or the ways that lead to hell;

To the level of the clog.

Yesterday is gone; tomorrow comes within our grasp;

Just this minute's joy or sorrow, pleasure or pain, is all we have;

Just this minute we are thinking on the ways that lead to God or the ways that lead to hell;

To the level of the clog.

Yesterday is gone; tomorrow comes within our grasp;

Just this minute's joy or sorrow, pleasure or pain, is all we have;

Just this minute we are thinking on the ways that lead to God or the ways that lead to hell;

To the level of the clog.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XI., THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, SEPT. 21.

Text of the Lesson, Deut. xxvi, 1-12.

Memory Verses, 10-12—Golden Text.

Ex. xxii, 48-52, and notice Moses' great desire to go over into the land, his prayer to God that he might be permitted to do so, God's refusal to allow him. Moses took his staff and requested one to appear in his stead, so that Israel might not be as sheep which have no shepherd. Observe that it was Moses' sin when he disobeyed God at Kadesh in striking the rock instead of speaking to it and thus failed to sanctify Goshen in the eyes of the people, and so prevented entering the promised land at that time. See Num. xx, 1-13, in connection with the above passages.

I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shan't go over thither.

Read with prayer and reliance upon the Holy Spirit the parallel passages in Num. xxvi, 12-17; Deut. iii, 23-29; xxii, 48-52, and notice Moses' great desire to go over into the land, his prayer to God that he might be permitted to do so, God's refusal to allow him. Moses took his staff and requested one to appear in his stead, so that Israel might not be as sheep which have no shepherd. Observe that it was Moses' sin when he disobeyed God at Kadesh in striking the rock instead of speaking to it and thus failed to sanctify Goshen in the eyes of the people, and so prevented entering the promised land at that time. See Num. xx, 1-13, in connection with the above passages.

When Moses pleaded to be permitted to go over, the word from the Lord was, "Let it suffice thee, speak no more unto me of this matter." Moses did not give up, and that was enough. It was Israel's sin in murmuring and rebelling that led Moses to sin, but that did not excuse Moses. How holy is our God, and what holiness He requires in us! And who is a equal fit?—John 14:15; 1 John 3:22; Exodus 15:11; Genesis 17:1; Abraham and Jacob, in Moses and Aaron, in David and Elijah, in the apostles and everywhere. There is none good but one. That is God. And Jesus was God manifested in flesh. And when we are saved by the Word of God it is saved by His Spirit. Our life will be what He desires.

5. And Moses was an hundred and twenty years old when he died. His eye was not dim nor his strength gone.

When Moses died, Moses and Eleazar were with him, but no one was with Moses when he died. He had often been alone with God, on two different occasions—forty days and nights at Mount Sinai, and previous to his return he had always come back to continue with the people. Now in health and vigor of body and in the use of all his faculties he went up into the mountain alone. Out from the earthy abode he while he had sojourned for 120 years Moses, the servant of the Lord, went to live with God forever. No sickness, no suffering, no pain as we know, but he just closed his eyes to sleep and awoke to the presence of God and of the redeemed and of the holy angels, absent from the body, present with the Lord, which was very far better for him (Phil. i, 21, 22). He is still in health and well, and after 1,600 years of rest from the time of his departure Peter and the others saw him on the Mount of Transfiguration with Jesus Christ, as he and Elijah spoke with our Lord of His approaching decease (Luke ix, 28-32; Matt. xvii, 1-8). But, no man being present, no man knows where, for God has not seen fit to tell. To hairy bodies in the earth is Scriptural, to burn with fire is heathenish, though it matters not how the body is disposed, for God will save it (1 Cor. i, 29; vi, 30, 40, 44, 54).

6. And the children of Israel went for Moses in the plains of Moab thirty days.

Although the great enemy death can only bring gain to us, yet his work and his body is to be destroyed, and our Lord Himself wept at the grave of Lazarus. Death came by sin, but in due time both death and sin shall be found no more on earth, but shall be destroyed (Heb. xiii, 14; 1 Cor. xv, 26; 1 Thess. v, 1-10).

7. And when the sun of wisdom was full of the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had laid his hands upon him.

8. And he asked that some one might be appointed to take his place, God designated Joshua as his successor (Num. xxvii, 18, 19), and now the people hastened to him as they had done to Moses. His story will come before us in the next quarter's lesson.

Death may remove from earth a Joseph or a Moses or a Joshua, but the Lord lives, and all the promises of God are yes and amen in Christ Jesus, and make Israel a nation again, and may look out into heaven and see a Priest King, who never dies, who said to John, "I am He that liveth and was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore, amen, and have the keys of hell and of death" (Rev. i, 20; Isa. vii, 1; Rev. i, 18).
